

101752 - How Should Converts Introduce Islam to Their Children?

the question

I have embraced Islam – praise be to Allah – and I have three children; I come from a Christian family that is tolerant of my being Muslim. My question is: how can I introduce Islam to my children, one of whom is eleven years old, the other is eight years old, and my daughter is five years old, without forcing them?

Summary of answer

Converts can introduce Islam to their children by:

Creating a connection between them and the Arabic language

Helping them get to know friends of their own age and background who are practising Muslims.

Making them feel an attachment to the mosque.

Letting them hear Quran recited in beautiful voices, so that the Quran will be held in high esteem in their hearts.

Watching Islamic cartoons and movies so that they can compare what they see and hear in them with what they see and hear in other movies.

Showing them Islamic websites that will be beneficial for them.

Taking them to do `Umrah and visit the sacred House of Allah.

Teaching them the basic principles of belief in a simple and straightforward manner

Presenting stories appropriate to their ages from the biography of the Prophet Muhammad and his noble Companions

Putting them in Islamic schools and keeping them away from corrupt schools.

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

Welcome to Islam

We praise Allah for having enabled you to enter Islam and we ask Him, may He be Exalted, to make you steadfast and to guide your family to this religion. We advise you not to be careless or lazy about guiding and teaching them, in the way that is best, in the hope that Allah will grant you the joy of seeing them enter Islam, and decree for you a reward equal to the reward for their good deeds.

You have done well to ask about your children and how to raise them in Islam . Allah, may He be Exalted, has placed a great deal of responsibility on parents' shoulders for the upbringing of their children .

`Abdullah ibn `Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) said: I heard the Messenger of Allah (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him) say: "Each of you is a shepherd and each of you is responsible for his flock. The ruler is a shepherd and is responsible for his flock. A man is the shepherd of his household and is responsible for his flock. A woman is the shepherd of her husband's house" (Narrated by Al-Bukhaari, 853 and Muslim, 1829)

Ibn Al-Qayyim (may Allah have mercy on him) said:

"Whoever neglects to teach his son that which will benefit him, and ignores him, has done something very bad indeed. Most children go astray because of their parents who neglect them and fail to teach them the duties and Sunnahs of their religion. They neglect them when they are young so they do not benefit themselves or benefit their parents when they grow up." (Tuhfat Al-Ahwadhi, p. 229)

How converts introduce Islam to their children

We advise you to upbringing your children upon Islam by introducing Islam to them and making it appealing to them; this can be achieved by different means, including the following:

Create a connection between them and the Arabic language, and instil a love for it in their hearts, because it is an important key to understanding and loving Islam.

Help them get to know friends of their own age and background who are practising Muslims. It is essential that these friends should be of good character and righteous, so that they can influence your children and be an example for them in their righteousness and adherence to Islam, and the manner in which they interact with their parents.

The Messenger of Allah (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him) said: “The likeness of a good companion and a bad companion is that of one who carries musk and one who works the bellows. With the carrier of musk, either he will give you some or you will buy some from him, or you will smell a good scent from him; as for the one who works the bellows, either he will burn your clothes or you will smell a bad scent from him.” (Narrated by Al-Bukhaari, 1995 and Muslim, 2628)

Make them feel an attachment to the mosque, by encouraging them to pray and attend classes; you can also make that attractive to them and encourage them by giving them gifts and prizes every time one of them shows some progress in his or her classes.

It is also a good idea for you to go with them to the mosque, to encourage them to go there and pray.

If it is not easy for them to go to the mosque because it is far away or the route is not safe, then do not neglect to teach them to pray on time at home. There is a binding instruction (from the Prophet (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him)) to teach those who reach the age of seven to pray and to make them do it; before this age they may be taught but not by way of making them do it.

The Messenger of Allah (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him) said: “Instruct your children to pray when they are seven years old and smack them if they do not do it when they are ten, and separate them in their beds.” (Narrated by Abu Dawood, 495; classed as authentic by Al-Albaani in Sahih Abu Dawud)

Let them hear the Quran recited in beautiful voices, so that the Quran will be held in high esteem in their hearts. The Book of Allah is a Book of guidance and light for people, which will illuminate the way for them and make them steadfast in adhering to the straight path, by Allah's leave.

Watch Islamic cartoons and movies so that they can compare what they see and hear in them with what they see and hear in other movies. Here you have an important role to play in explaining the differences between the two, and highlight how Islam encourages people to do good, uphold ties of kinship, show kindness and be merciful, and it forbids evil, severing ties of kinship, corruption and hardheartedness.

Show them Islamic websites that will be beneficial for them, each according to his age and whilst being careful not to let them roam freely on the internet; rather that should be through you.

Something that you should think about seriously and that will help you in what you are seeking to achieve is taking them to do `Umrah and visit the sacred House of Allah, for these visits have a far-reaching impact on the hearts of young people as is also the case with adults.

Teach them the basic principles of belief in a simple and straightforward manner according to their ages, such as the Oneness of Allah, may He be Exalted, and that He can hear them and see them, and that He rewards for good deeds and adhering to the rulings of Islam

The fact that `Abdullah ibn `Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him) was very young did not prevent the Prophet (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him) from saying to him eloquent words about Tawhid and `Aqidah \(belief\). It was narrated that Ibn `Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him) said: I was [riding] behind the Messenger of Allah (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him) one day and he said: "O young man, I shall teach you some words (of advice): be mindful of Allah, and Allah will protect you. Be mindful of Allah, and you will find Him in front of you. If you ask, ask of Allah; if you seek help, seek help of Allah. Know that if the nation were to gather together to benefit you with anything, it would benefit you only with something that Allah had already decreed for you, and that if they were to gather together to harm you with anything, they would only harm you with something Allah had already decreed for you. The pens have been lifted and the pages have dried." (Narrated by At-Tirmidhi, 2516; classed as authentic by Al-Albani in Sahih At-Tirmidhi.)

Present stories appropriate to their ages from the biography of the Prophet Muhammad (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him) and his noble Companions (may Allah be pleased with them), so that they will know that they belong to the best religion, the best Prophet, the best nation.

Put them in Islamic schools and keep them away from corrupt schools , so that the Islamic schools can take care of their beliefs and conduct; choose the best of them according to what you see fit.

Important matters to be mindful of

You should not be careless about two important matters:

Pray that Allah help them and guide them ; your supplication will be an important means of their being guided, so do not neglect it and do not think little of it.

You should be a good example for them in treating them kindly and showing compassion towards them. That is not only part of motherhood; it is also part of being a Muslim who adheres to the religion of Allah, may He be Exalted.

We ask Allah to help you to do that which is good and to guide your children to that which He loves and which pleases Him.

And Allah knows best.
