

117829 - Should he enter a program during which he will see women's awrahs so that he can graduate quickly for his father's sake?

---

the question

I am currently in College and my father is really sick and I need to finish something fast, there is a program called Diagnostic Medical Imaging, which uses ultrasound, like sonogram. However, most people who use this are women for being pregnant and there is going to be a lot of interaction with the female gender and a lot of seeing their reproduction system, is this haraam for me as being a male? My only reason to choose it is because I need something fast for my father.

Detailed answer

We do not think that you should enter this program, because of what it involves of looking at women's 'awrahs unnecessarily. Allaah says (interpretation of the meaning):

“Tell the believing men to lower their gaze (from looking at forbidden things), and protect their private parts (from illegal sexual acts). That is purer for them. Verily, Allaah is All-Aware of what they do”

[al-Noor 24:30].

See also the answers to questions no. 85622 and 5693.

Rushing to graduate is not regarded as a case of necessity, even if it is for the sake of serving your father. You can reconcile the two interests according to what you are able to do. You can appoint whoever you think is suitable to do this service, even if it means paying them, if there is no one in your family who can do it for free.

We appreciate your eagerness to serve your father and we appreciate your keenness to adhere to shar'i limits. We ask Allaah to decree for you the reward of that, and we ask Allaah to decree a speedy recovery for your father, and to give him both reward and well being.

And Allaah knows best.