

129752 - Effect of food coming back up from the stomach when one is fasting

the question

I have a problem in my stomach that makes food come back up when I have some liquid in the mouth, and this happened in Ramadan. Do I have to make up that day?.

Detailed answer

If something comes back up out of the stomach into the mouth, then the fasting person must spit it out; if he deliberately swallows it, his fast is invalidated, but if he swallows it without meaning to, he does not have to do anything.

Standing Committee for Academic Research and Issuing Fatwas