32470 - Is it permissible to say that a particular person is one of the awliya' (close friends) of Allaah?

the question

Is it permissible to say that a particular person is a wali or close friend of Allaah because of his righteousness and piety, whether he is living or dead, such as saying for example, The scholar so and so is one of the awliya' of Allaah?.

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

Allaah has mentioned the signs by which His close friends or awliya' may be known. They are: faith (eemaan) and piety (taqwa). Allaah says (interpretation of the meaning):

“No doubt! Verily, the Awliyaa' of Allaah, no fear shall come upon them nor shall they grieve.

Those who believed, and used to fear Allaah much (by abstaining from evil deeds and sins and by doing righteous deeds)”

[Yoonus 10:62-63]

But it is not possible to be certain that a particular individual is one of the awliya' of Allaah, because achieving true faith and piety are matters of the heart that are hidden, and people cannot find out about them. Hence it is possible to think that someone is likely to be a wali, but it is impossible to be certain.

the Qur'aan and Sunnah. If they are in accordance with the Qur'aan and Sunnah, then we hope that he is one of the awliya' or close friends of Allaah, but if they go against the Qur'aan and Sunnah, then he is not one of the awliya' of Allaah. Allaah has mentioned in His Book the fair standards by which His awliya' may be known, as He says (interpretation of the meaning):

“No doubt! Verily, the Awliyaa' of Allaah, no fear shall come upon them nor shall they grieve.

Those who believed, and used to fear Allaah much (by abstaining from evil deeds and sins and by doing righteous deeds)”

[Yoonus 10:62-63]

Whoever is a believer and is pious is a close friend of Allaah, and whoever is not like that is not a close friend of Allaah. If he has some faith and piety then he is a friend of Allaah to some extent.

Nevertheless we cannot be certain about a specific person, but we say in general that everyone who believes and is pious is a friend of Allaah (wali).
