

7699 - Is It Haram to Miss Jumu'ah?

the question

What is the punishment of not going to Jumu'ah prayer? Can you please back up the answer with a hadith?

Summary of answer

It is haram to miss Jumu'ah prayer. If you do not attend Jumu'ah without a valid reason, you will be committing a major sin. Whoever does not attend three Jumu'ahs (in a row) out of negligence has a seal placed over his heart.

Detailed answer

If a person for whom Jumu'ah is obligatory does not attend and does not have a valid excuse, this is a major sin. Whoever does not attend three Jumu'ahs (in a row) out of negligence has a seal placed over his heart and is regarded as one of the negligent/heedless.

Muslim narrated in his Sahih from Abu Hurayrah and Ibn `Umar (may Allah be pleased with them both), that they heard the Prophet (peace and blessings of Allah be upon them) say from his pulpit: "People should definitely stop neglecting Jumu'ah , or else Allah will most certainly seal their hearts and they will most certainly be among the negligent."

According to another hadith: "Whoever neglects three Jumu'ahs (in a row) out of negligence will have a seal placed upon his heart." (Abu Dawud 1052, at-Tirmidhi 500, an-Nasai 1369)

This is a spiritual punishment, which is more severe than a physical punishment such as imprisonment or flogging. The Muslim ruler should punish those who fail to attend Jumu'ah prayers with no excuse, as a deterrent.

Let each Muslim fear Allah and not miss performing one of the obligatory duties enjoined by Him, lest he expose himself to the punishment of Allah; let him adhere to that which Allah has made obligatory so that he may earn the reward of Allah. And Allah bestows His Bounty upon whomsoever He wills.
