10203 - What is the ruling on selling women’s products?

the question

I have an establishment in which I sell perfumes, watches, make-up, creams, hair-dryers and ready-made women’s clothes which are long and not revealing. My question is: are any of these items haraam and should I stop selling them, or can I carry on with my business?

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

With regard to selling the things you mention, there is nothing to indicate that they are haraam, so long as that does not lead to any haraam actions such as flirting or joking with women and so on.
