106545 - A pilgrim who is doing Qiraan cut his hair after saa’i out of ignorance

the question

A man did Hajj with the intention of Qiraan, and when he did tawaaf al-qudoom, he also did saa’i and cut his hair because he saw the people cutting their hair, but he remained in ihraam until he had completed Hajj.

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

He does not have to do anything, because this man who entered ihraam for Qiraan, then he did tawaaf and saa’i, then he saw the people cutting their hair so he cut his hair, did not intend to exit ihraam and he remained in ihraam, so he does not have to do anything, because the most he did was to cut his hair out of ignorance, so he did one of the things that are forbidden in ihraam out of ignorance, and if a person does one of the things that are forbidden in ihraam out of forgetfulness or ignorance, or because he is forced to do it, he does not have to do anything.
